39 OHIO BARS CITED FOR CUTTING LIQUOR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11—The enforcement division of the state liquor control department today charged 39 permit holders with selling diluted, substituted or contaminated liquor.

The 39 were ordered to appear before the state liquor control board and show cause why their permits should not be revoked or suspended.

The citations followed an investigation by three two-man teams which during a month visited 56 liquor establishments, picked bottles at random from the shelves and checked their contents.

Lieut. Floyd C. Moon, acting enforcement chief, said that contents which failed to coincide with the label as to proof were immediately suspected. All bottles which indicated contamination or tampering were sealed and sent to the department laboratory in Columbus, where tests were made.

Moon said some bottles obviously were contaminated since foreign substances could be detected with the naked eye. Some bottles, he added, even contained insects.

Laboratory findings which failed to check with the labeled description were reported back to the enforcement division. If evidence indicated the bottle had been refilled or its contents diluted, contaminated or substituted, a citation was prepared.

The roving teams, especially trained and armed with "Williams testers," will become a permanent part of the enforcement program, Moon announced. The present campaign against dilution and contamination is the most extensive conducted by the department in four years.

A "Williams tester" is a device employing a solvent which shows whether a whisky has been watered.

Moon said the three types of violations most commonly encountered were:

1. Simple dilution with water added, making the whisky lower proof than called for on the label;

2. Substitution or re-filling with inferior or possibly tax-free whisky from out-of-state sources, and

3. Contamination with insects or solid matter making hte liquor unfit for consumption.

SLAVS BREAK OFF RELATIONS WITH CHILEANS

Action Follows Expulsion of 2 Balkan Diplomats by South American Country.

By The Associated Press

BELGRADE, Oct. 11—Premier Marshal Tito's government severed diplomatic relations with Chile today over the expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats.

Yugoslavia described as fantastic and slanderous the reasons given by Chile for the banishment—that the diplomats had engaged in a Communist-directed campaign against Chile, the United States and the defense of the Western Hemisphere by fomenting strikes and sabotage in the South American nation.

The Yugoslav foreign ministry said Chile's action was to further "the interest of expansionist tendencies of certain powers who more and more direct the home and foreign policy of Chile."

Name No Names

The government's announcement did not name these powers. (Moscow, however, left no doubt as to who was meant. The Soviet press and radio said the expulsion was intended to "gratify reactionary circles of the United States." Pravda called it "a lackey-like service to American imperialism in Chile." The Communist party of Chile urged a United Nations investigaton.)

Yugoslavia said "there is no longer need to continue diplomatic relations with a government which does not regulate its relations with other states independently."

The statement charged Chile with "breaking the most basic principles of international relations."

"Part of Plot"

It said the Chilean action against the two Yugoslavs—Dalibor Jakasa, secretary of the legation at Buenos Aires, a visitor in Santiago, and Andrej Cunja, former charge d'affaires in Santiago—was "a part of a planned campaign, not in the interests of the people of Chile, but in the interest of expansionistic tendencies of certain powers which more and more are directing the internal and external policies of Chile."

(The Chilean government, in expelling Cunja and Jakasa, accused them of fomenting, on orders from an international Communist organization, a campaign against the United States and against hemisphere defense plans, through strikes and sabotage.)

"This step of the Chilean government," the Yugoslav foreign office statement said, "falls in a period of sharp, slanderous attacks on the Yugoslav government—attacks whose initiators are the same powers who are attempting to unsettle friendly cooperation between the nations."

Since there is no Chilean diplomatic mission in Belgrade, a formal break involves simply the announcement, which was made last night but given to foreign correspondents only this morning in an edition of the Communist party organ Borba.

CHILE RATIONS COAL, CHARGES REDS ARE AT FAULT

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 11—President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla ordered a drastic coal rationing today as Chile dug into the armed forces' fuel reserve in a strike crisis blamed officially on a foreign-dictated Communist plan "to paralyze any Chilean action in defense of hemispheric security."

While the President reiterated his "unbreakable intention to eliminate Communist party control over the working masses," the Chilean Communist party called for United Nations consideration of the situation developing from Wednesday's expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats on charges of "Communist agitation."

With a stroke of 16,000 coal miners in its eighth day, an official report from Concepcion, in the center of the coal fields, said only 50 had returned to work. The miners are asking for higher pay.

Four more alleged Communist agitators were arrested, bringing to nearly 50 the number jailed or transported to chilly Tierra Del Fuego in the far south.

In a statement issued by its politburo, the Chilean Communist party declared that "in the presence of the extremely grave accusations" made by the government the Communists request appointment of a commission of outstanding persons to investigate the facts.

RUSS PRESS ASSAILS CHILEAN ACTIONS

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 11—The Soviet press and radio today assailed Chile's "unceremonious action" in expelling two Yugoslav diplomats as an undertaking intended to "gratify reactionary circles of the United States, which have been conducting a frantic campaign in connection with the so-called Communist menace."

The Communist organ Pravda, under the headline "A lackey-like service to American imperialism in Chile," printed a Tass agency

PLANT BURNED AT DELAWARE

Marion Clothing Included in $160,000 Loss in Dry Cleaners' Building.

Fire at Delaware yesterday afternoon destroyed the main plant of the Clad-Rite Cleaners at a loss estimated by the owners at nearly $160,000.

Owners of the plant, Victor, Byron and W. Parks Kentner, estimated the loss to the building at $60,000 and to contents at nearly $100,000.

Walter J. and Clarence Jamerson, who operate an agency of the company at 139 North State street, largest of five branches, were unable this morning to give the extent of the loss to Marion customers.

Walter Jamerson said that about an average amount of clothing from here was at the Delaware plant where all cleaning operations are conducted. The estimate of Marion's loss is pending a check of invoices being made today.

Marion Uniforms Lost

Among the heaviest clothing losses yet to be tabulated is that of Company C of the 166th Infantry, Marion's National Guard unit. Jamerson's invoices show the following items from Company C were at Delaware: 90 pairs of trousers, 67 overcoats, 68 blouses, 59 O.D. shirts and 42 Field jackets. Two trucks were to have gone to Delaware today to return the winter outfits.

The spectacular fire broke out about 4:30 p. m. in the receiving room at the plant and raged for an hour and a half before being brought under control. Fourteen persons at work in the building escaped safely.

The fire was said to have originated in a pile of clothing. Spreading through the processing line the fire was sweeping through the entire plant before firemen could be summoned.

Building Just Completed

The 300-foot long Quonset hut type structure was completed only a few hours before the fire. All company records and clothing held for cleaning were destroyed. Among other losses were a number of fur coats and uniforms for the Plain City High school band.

The Clad-Rite store here was opened in February of this year at East Center and State streets where the new Pure Oil Station is now being constructed. The store moved to its present location on North State street June 1.

Other branch stores are located in Marysville, Mt. Vernon, Newark and Columbus.

Injunction Is Granted In Strike at Galion

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 11—The North Electric company of Galion has been granted its request for an injunction against the UAW-CIO to "end violence" and "limit picketing" at its Galion plant, strikebound since Aug. 20.

Judge Ralph Sugrue of Tiffin, granted the injunction shortly before 2:30 p. m. yesterday, concluding a three-day hearing which opened a week ago. He limited pickets to no more than six at any of the three gates at the Galion plant.

The company rested its case shortly before noon Friday after its attorneys, Robert Jamison and Fred O. Burkhalter, had recalled seven witnesses to the stand. Testimony largely concerned noise and vandalism on the night following a company attempt to put workers back on their jobs.

Judge Keeps Session Going

Judge Sugrue, who Thursday urged that the hearing "continue until it is completed if it takes all night," said he intended to keep the court in session Friday "straight through until the case is finished."

Stephan Mack, Toledo, counsel for the UAW, had previously intimated he might call as many as 50 witnesses. However, Edward Duck, UAW organizer who had conducted the Galion strike, was the sole witness called to the stand by the union counsel when the court reconvened after the noon recess Friday. Mack had been frequently warned by the judge during the morning testimony about delaying the hearing by inconsequential cross-examination of company witnesses. His request for a denial of the company petition, made as the company rested its case, was denied.

Duck said after the hearing was concluded that he would instruct union members to observe all law and order, but that the injunction does not mean that the strike is over.

Plans for Operation

In Galion this morning R. K. McBerty, North company vice president, announced the employment office at Galion would be open Monday morning to register all those persons who wish to go to work and who have not already signed petitions to go back to work. These employes, he said, will be called back as soon as their departments are ready to operate, indicating that several days would be necessary to "clean up the plant."

Concerning the number of employes who may register Monday, a discrepancy between the company and union estimates appears. McBerty said this morning that "close to 400 out of 750 employes at Galion have signed petitions to go back to work." UAW leader Duck said that less than 100 have signed to go back, adding that for the most part they were department heads and foremen-drawing better pay than the production workers.

Duck claimed a company foreman, A. W. Clement, who sponsored back to work petitions on two occasions had admitted to him (Duck) that not enough signers had been secured to induce the company to reopen the plant.

Marion Man Injured In Fall from Tree

According to police reports, he lost his footing while picking peaches and fell head first to the ground.

Wife Fires Automobile To Keep Mate at Home

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11—A 36-year-old mother today faced filing of arson charges after Assistant State Fire Marshal Gayle Owens of Marion said she had acknowledged destroying the family's 11-year-old car to "keep my husband from running around."

Owens quoted Mrs. Lewis as saying she refused to let her husband Malvern, 38, take the car when he returned home after a week's absence and that she burned the car when he left for aid.

Around the conference tables at Yalta and Potsdam fateful words were spoken—not by mere shadowy representatives of the big powers but by flesh and blood human beings. What did they say to one another? How did they get along as people? What was the effect of these personalities on the course of history? Only one man present is fully qualified to tell. He is former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes whose invaluable shorthand notes now serve him well in his resolution to take the public behind the conference barricades. Here is a series of articles so vitally important, so charged with interest that no reader who considers himself really informed will want to miss it.

PLEDGES MADE BY DISTILLERS

Clear Majority of Industry Has Agreed to Liquor Holiday, Luckman Says.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—President Truman's Citizens Food committee said today that a clear majority of the nation's major distillers has agreed to a 60-day shutdown to save grain for Europe.

Of 39 companies represented here Wednesday when Committee Chairman Charles Luckman proposed the shutdown, 18 gave assent on the spot. A spokesman for Luckman reported today that five more firms wired their agreement yesterday.

One of the messages came under protest. J. A. Engelhard, president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, an organization representing 60 per cent of the industry, warned that the whisky-making holiday will bring "serious unemployment" as well as cattle-feeding problems.

No Saving Seen

Livestock now being fed on distillery by-products will "have to be fed on whole grain," he said. Little grain will be saved, therefore, he said.

"We also feel," Englehard added, "that labor should be given an opportunity to be heard before any final decision is made." One distillery workers' union official has estimated that 100,000 workers would be laid off.

Distillery officials are due to reassemble with Luckman here Monday to give the industry's final answer. The committees will have representatives from the food committee, the industry, and the treasury department — which stands to lose more than $400,000,000 in alcohol tax revenue by the closure.

Crop Estimate Falls

Biggest disappointment of the emergency food campaign came yesterday, when a government crop report showed only a 54,761,000 bushel improvement in the forecast for this year's short corn crop.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson pointed out that even this gain over the Sept. 1 forecast was offset by a cut in the estimate of old-crop corn on the farms, and by a 2,000,000 bushel decline in the prospective wheat yield.

Officials, encouraged by reports from the midwest, had hoped for a 100,000,000 bushel improvement over the September prediction of 2,403,913,000 bushels of corn. This might have allowed some easing of the voluntary meatless Tuesday and poultryless Thursday diet prescribed by the Luckman committee.

WILL HELP UN TO KEEP ORDER

American Policy Declaration Ignores Question of Use of Troops.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 11—The United States today accepted in principle a proposal for partition of Palestine into Jewish and Arab nations.

The country also agreed to help the United Nations preserve "internal law and order" during a recommended two-year transition period.

On the question of providing military forces to guard against possible attacks from the outside the United States refrained from making any commitments.

In a long-waited policy declaration before the 57-nation Palestine committee of the general assembly, Herschel V. Johnson, U. S. delegate, said:

►Endorsed in principle a majority recommendation by the UN special committee on Palestine (UNSCOP) for admission of 150,000 Jewish immigrants into the Holy Land during the interim period.

►Declared in effect that Britain was obligated to continue ruling Palestine until the United Nations undertakes "to assume responsibility."

Hold British Responsible

A spokesman for the American delegation said that, in the opinion of the U. S. government, Britain was not free to carry out her announced plans of withdrawing from Palestine until the UN had set up machinery to replace the British administration.

Johnson made no direct reference to the current Arab league council's move to send troops to the borders of Palestine.

In outlining the part the United States was ready to play in the implementation of the partition plan, Johnson said:

"The United States is willing to participate in a United Nations program to assist the parties involved in the establishment of a workable political settlement in Palestine.

"We refer to assistance through the problem of internal law and order during the transition period.

"The latter problem might require the establishment of a special constabulary or police force recruited on a volunteer basis by the United Nations.

Wants Modification

"My delegation believes that certain geographical modifications should be made. For example, Jaffa should be included in the Arab state because it is predominantly an Arab city."

He then proposed that "all the inhabitants of Palestine, regardless of citizenship or place of residence, be guaranteed access to ports and to water and power facilities on a non-discriminatory basis; that constitutional guarantees, including guarantees regarding equal opportunity, be provided for Arabs and Jews alike, and that the powers of the joint economic board be strengthened."

Turning to the question of implementing the assembly's decision on Palestine, Johnson said:

"The general assembly did not, by admitting this item to its agenda, undertake to assume responsibility for the administration of Palestine during the process of transition to independence. Responsibility for the government of Palestine now rests with the mandatory power.

Delegates to the assembly's special 57-nation Palestine committee also were confronted with a British demand that every member accept "a fair share" of European displaced persons as immigrants to ease the plight of distressed European Jews and help solve the Holy Land problem.

ARAB LEAGUE TO WEIGH FURTHER ACTION

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Oct. 11—Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab league, said the league council would wind up its Holy Land deliberations tonight with discussions of possible further "military measures" against Palestine.

The council voted Thursday night to cordon off what it called "terrorist organizations and Zionist forces" in Palestine by moving Arab troops up to the boundaries of the Holy Land.

Arab sources here said the troops were moving up in accordance with the decision but other official quarters here and in Jerusalem said they had been unable to detect any unusual troop concentrations.

Azzum Pasha said the chiefs of the seven council delegation—from Syria, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Lebanon, Egypt, Yemen and Saudi Arabia—met last night to discuss possible further military action. Their recommendations, he said,

Money Is No Object To Minnesota Farmer

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11—Prosperity note from the farm belt: A Minnesota farmer went into a farm implement store to buy a couple of badly needed equipment. He found what he wanted but the dealer said he would have to postpone the sale because he wasn't sure of the price.

The farmer took out a blank check, signed his name and handed it to the dealer.

"Fill it in yourself," he said.

Farmers are traditionally pessimistic. A business that leaves him at the mercy of weather conditions makes him necessarily pessimistic, no matter how well they may be faring momentarily. They must always cushion themselves against the possibility of disaster with the next season.

Hal Boyle

"Well, I don't see that you've got a thing to complain of," a relative told one old wheat farmer. "It's been a wonderful year. You've got money in the bank, no mortgage, you had a fine crop and got a good price."

"Yes," agreed the farmer, and then he added cautiously, "but it's been a darn hard strain on the soil."

• • •

Many farmers went bankrupt after the First World War by using profits to over-expand their acreage. Bidding against each other, they ran prices up to inflationary levels.

This time they are making better use of their wealth. They are paying off their indebtedness and putting their extra cash into farm machinery and home appliances.

"There are plenty around who still remember what happened the last time," said one observer. "They want to be in better shape if another crash comes.

"I was out in the Dakotas during the last depression. Wheat fell to 25 cents a bushel. Men were working for $15 to $25 a month on farms in the summertime. In winter they got no pay—and were glad even to have a place to live and eat.

"The women went barefoot all week on the farm. They had only one pair of hose, and they wanted to save them to wear to town on Saturday.

"Eggs fell to 10 cents a dozen. I bought a case from one old farmer, and he was so disguested with the market that he said: "Don't even bother paying. Just take them alone. They aren't worth anything at that price'."

A city boy really gets his eyes opened during a trip through the farm country. I thought cod liver oil was merely an incidental hazard of childhood, but Mrs. J. D. Richardson of Clear Lake, Ia., for years has used it to grow chickens.

She has a flock of about 500 white leghorns, and for each hundred chickens she doles out two tablespoons of cod liver oil daily.

"The cod liver oil is the secret of healthy chickens," she said. "Their bones are apt to get soft when they are laying if they don't get the cod liver oil."

You don't have to bother to mix it with orange juice.

A Slight Case of Bodily Harm, Namely Hanging, Considered

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Let us consider today, calmly like the lawyers who mentioned it first, a slight case of bodily harm, to wit: hanging. On the end of a rope. By the neck. ULP.

This problem hinges, as I hope to prove with the assistance of the legal profession (literary division), on the question: how can you run a union coal mine without the mine? From here on, it's the lawyers' affidavits talking.

The Seneca Coal Mining Co., according to the affidavits, bought a patch of pasture (with coal beneath) about eight miles southwest of Owensboro, Ky. Then it hired the Jackson Construction Co. to build the railroad sidings, tipples, shakers, and washers so the miners could go to work.

A couple of gents from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America asked was it going to be a union mine, or non-union? Seneca's superintendent, Charles Smothers, didn't say yes and he didn't say no. He said wait until he got a coal mine first.

Miners Don't Wait

The United Mine Workers didn't wait. They set up a picket line, with cussing, insults and nose pokings hereinafter to be described, on the theory that no mine is better than a non-union mine. The construction company's men were afraid to work. Only the watchman showed up that night and the union chased him out bodily.

So the Jackson Company, which didn't give a hoot about the coal business filed charges with the national labor relations board, accusing John L's friends of strong-arming a $250,000 building job out of existence. The NLRB said this looked like a violation of the Taft-Hartley act, and asked for an injunction against the union in federal court. Now we come to the literary part:

The attorneys' brief said that the vice president of the construction firm, his lawyer and a couple of other gents tried to drive through the picket line on Aug. 27 in two motors cars.

"Respondents stopped said automobiles," this document continued, "and cursed said parties in vile and obscene terms and forcibly kept them from entering and threatened that if they again attempted to enter they would meet with bodily injury, to wit: hanging."

Called Dirty Rat

These charges the lawyers supported with formal affidavits by all the gentlemen who scrammed in fear of bodily-injury-to-wit. Charles F. Smothers, the Seneca superintendent, was the only one who actually got it in the neck. A union chieftain called him a "dirty rat."

"I heard a lot of swearing," he testified, "and some one yelled, 'Where's the rope?' Let's get it and hang the (you supply the words)'." Then Arthur Chaney of the United Mine Workers called Smothers a "pot-bellied" something or other and hit him in the nose.

This knocked a cigar from Smothers' mouth, scratched his neck, and pulled a button off his shirt. An unidentified Kentuckian next poked him twice in the mouth, cutting his lip and loosening two of his teeth.

So Jack G. Evans of the Cincinnati office of the NLRB told the court in Louisville, Ky., that he had reasonable cause to believe the union had broken not only Smothers' button, but also the law.

The court ordered the mine workers to appear in Owensboro, Ky., at 10 a. m., Nov 6, to show cause why they shouldn't be enjoined to wit: from threatening to stretch the necks of those who would build a coal mine without permission of John L., and Co.

Boxcar Shortage Seen Lasting Most of Winter

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—A railroad industry spokesman predicted yesterday that the present railroad car shortage will last through most of the winter.

R. E. Clark of the Association of American Railroad's car service division said railroads are short 37,000 cars a day. He said the figure included 16,000 open-top cars and 18,000 box cars.

S. M. Felton, president of the American Railway Car Institute, said the shortage was the result of 10 years of "inadequate earnings" for the railroads followed by five war years during which new cars could not be bought.

Despite the shortage, Clark said car loadings this month will equal or exceed last year's all-time high.

Tea consumption in England averages 11 pounds per person each year.

Total Enrollment In U. S. Colleges Set at 2,500,000

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11 — Total enrollment in the nation's colleges this fall probably will hit 2,500,000, an increase of 500,000 over the same semester last year and 50 per cent more than the 1939 prewar fall peak, Dr Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati, predicted yesterday

Dr. Walters, nationally known statistician of higher education, said preliminary figures on full and part-time enrollment received from approved schools throughout the country showed "a decided drop in the inflow of new veterans but an overflowing reservoir of total collegiate students." He continued

"As compared with the first-time GI invasion of the colleges a year ago, there are far fewer freshman veterans on the campus this fall, the decreases ranging in general from 10 to 75 per cent.

"However, a remarkably high proportion of the 1,000 000 veterans who entered college last year with federal payment of their tuition and subsistence and good academic work and have returned to upper classes this fall."

Announcing he would release detailed full and part-time listies on accredited institutions later in his annual survey of school and society, the Educational Weekly, Dr. Walter continued:

"In the east north central area Ohio State university reported a drop of 10 per cent in new veterans and an estimated 5 per cent in full-time students."

Of 59 colleges reporting to Walters, he said 26 have more attendances than last year, 22 reported unchanged enrollments and 11 have fewer students than last year.

Loyalty Tests Seek Employes Tagged Bad Risks on 2 Counts

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Two kinds of searches are going on to find government workers who can't be trusted.

They are searches to find people considered:

1. Risky to have around, called "security risks."

2. Disloyal.

What's the difference?

A man who belongs to no Communist organization but hobnobs with Communists might be considered a security risk.

James Marlow

A man, not a Communist, who handles secret information but babbles about it, drunk or sober, would be a security risk.

A man, not a Communist but active in organizations connected with Communists, might be considered not only a security risk but disloyal, too.

A Communist would be considered not only a security risk but disloyal and he'd be fired.

Line Gets Thin

But the line between a risky employe and a man's right to have a private life begins to get a little thin.

What of a man who handles secret information but has often expressed sympathy with Communist views, and that's all? Is he a risk?

Maybe. But not necessarily so. An investigation might show more, or nothing. His bosses in the government would have to decide.

It's right there that care has to be taken that a man's right to his own views have to be considered.

Government officials who are handling the investigations insist that all care is taken to be fair and not injure innocent workers.

But a man who might be looked upon as risky in one government agency might not be so considered in another. For example:

The state department, the Army Navy and atomic energy commission handle highly secret information.

Could Endanger U. S.

Some of it, if it reached the hands of an unfriendly nation, might endanger the safety of this country.

So the heads of those agencies might believe that a man who is a security risk, but not necessarily disloyal, should be fired.

For example: That man who handled highly secret information but babbled about it. He could do damage if he worked for the state department.

But that same man, if he worked for the labor department which doesn't deal in problems involving national safety, might not be considered a security risk no matter how much he talked of the work he did.

The state department, the Army, Navy and atomic energy people have been making their own investigations a good while and firing security risks.

906 Housing Units Provided

Report Issued on Use Made by Counties of State Funds.

Fifteen housing units, costing more than $50,000 were provided in Marion county under the veterans' housing program, a United Press dispatch from Columbus reported today. The figures are included in a report of county commissioners throughout the state for the first six months of this year. Nine hundred six housing units were provided throughout the state financed through funds amounting to $6,000,000 appropriated by the legislature in 1946, and according to the dispatch 520 additional units were under construction and plans were under way for 302 more.

Marion county received $38,998 for its program and of this amount $7,190 is the balance on hand. No units are under construction and none are planned, according to the dispatch.

Two Counties in Red

Crawford county is one of two counties which went into the red after spending more money than their allotment from the state. Clinton county was the other county, according to the report.

From the $30,984 received by Crawford county seven units have been provided and six are under construction. The deficit is $4,964. Hardin county, with an allotment of $23,505, has a balance of $18,017 after providing two units, with one under construction and one planned. Of the $16,692 alloted Wyandot county, four units were provided and the commissioners still have a balance of $342. No units are under construction and none are planned in that county. In Delaware county, which received $28,261, seven units were provided and one is under construction. The county has a balance of $1,228 on hand. No request for a grant was made by Harrison county whose allotment was $17,844.

The money was provided by the legislature to county commissioners, on application, in a population ratio based on the 1940 census, the dispatch states.

22 Take No Action

Twenty-two counties of the 87 drawing the money still had not provided housing units as of July 1, according to the county commissioners reports to the state. Two of the counties furnished but one housing unit each while 32 counties built 10 or more units each, according to the reports.

Representatives of veterans' organizations pointed out that some counties made excellent records while other did not. The veterans officials said they could not comment because they did not know what type of housing was provided with the state's money. The county commissioners were not required in their reports to show the type of housing furnished.

Marion county Units consist of house trailers situated at a North Main street trailer camp.

THE day is clear and fresh and spiced with autumn's tang.

Somewhere there's a friendly little road where Nature has done her gorgeous best with scarlets and golds of her own special blending.

It's a moment to be prized — to be seized — to be implanted forever in memory's book; so slip into this one and make the most of it.

Reach forward and touch the control that swings back the top — on a day like this, you'll want to be one with the air and the sky and the sparkling sunshine.

For a windscreen, lift the handy button that rolls up the door window — to adjust the front seat to your liking, touch a third automatic control, and you're all set.

Gun the motor. Eight Fireball cylinders answer that they're ready for anything you are.

Swing the wheel. Light and sure as your finger, it lets you know that a hand's weight is enough on this firm but feathery helm.

Steal a glance at your reflection in a passing store window. You'll find you look as you feel, bright and gay as this wonderful day.

Seek out a rough spot, just for test purposes. Your soft coil springs are alert on the job, soaking up the rough spots; ample inches and abundant roadweight are here to keep your going level and true.

You've got everything you need for a wonderful time, so go ahead. Let your cares slip away in the breeze you stir up. Drink in refreshment for soul and spirit, for mind and nerves.

For that's why we build this Convertible.

For the fun it can bring you through the seasons. For sunny days and bright blue weather — for gorgeous days to come, when all outdoors beckons you to enjoy the pleasures of the open road.

Why don't you plan now to have one for your own?

It may take a little waiting, but just as surely as autumn follows summer, and winter blossoms into spring, this car of cars can be yours, if you place an order now — with or without a car to trade.

A Burden of Sorrow

THE Army transport Honda Knot has arrived in San Francisco with the first of America's war dead. The 3,028 on the Honda Knot are the first of thousands being returned, on next of kin's request, to lie in their own communities. Other thousands will remain in well-kept cemeteries overseas.

The obsequies with which we receive these men is poor payment for the sacrifice they made. The least we can do in return is keep their memory green and plot our course as best we know so that their sons and brothers are never called on to face the same fate.

Rupert Brooke, a casualty of World War I, wrote.

Blow out, you bugles, over the rich dead!
There's none so lonely and poor of old,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.

These men were denied their full span of years that we might live on as a free democracy. That is their bequest to us. Let us prove worthy of that bequest.

Chris Wouldn't Know the Place

SUNDAY is the 455th anniversary of Columbus' discovery of America. Grandiose as the venturesome Genoese's visions may have been the day he stepped ashore at San Salvador, it isn't likely he had any conception that he was breaking the bonds of the Middle Ages, widening man's horizons and ushering in a new era for mankind.

Little did he reck there would be a state called Ohio with a capital known as Columbus; that France would have a stadium named Colombes; that Panama would have a city called Colon.

Little did he know he was making 1192 a year that could readily be identified by even the dullest participant on a radio quiz program.

Columbus thought he was sailing to the Isles of Spice, a land where gold nuggets for Isabella's coffers could be picked up like rocks in a granite quarry. Instead he found a wilderness which has needed a bit of working over to become inhabitable for those who enjoy life's amenities. Sometimes we ponder the job that has been done on it and are discontent, but a look at the rest of the world stills those doubts.

New Liquor Enforcement Chief

OHIO will have a new liquor law enforcement director Wednesday when Donald F. Geyer succeeds Lieut. Floyd C. Moon of the state highway patrol, former Marion man, who has held the post on a temporary basis since last May.

Allowed a free hand in his work, Moon has improved the morale and efficiency of the department by weeding out incompetents and conducting training schools for agents. Let us hope the trend continues under Geyer, who comes to the job with eight years of meritorius service in the department.

Flash! Wallace Makes Sense

HENRY A. WALLACE makes sense rarely, so kindly stop the presses for an acknowledgment that his proposal for a meeting between spokesmen for the United States and the Soviet Union is worth looking into, though not for the reason he has in mind.

He thinks it might close the breach opening between Americans and Russians. Both countries want peace, he says, so therefore all they have to do is get their heads together, discuss their major points of difference and presto, they can have peace.

Wallace, of course, still hasn't understood that there can be no peace on earth—ever—if it depends on his countrymen swallowing their conviction that despotism has no place in modern society. There can be no peace while a despotic government systematically meddles in the affairs of its international neighbors, hopeful of overthrowing them. Peace at that price wouldn't be worth having.

All this would be made clear if spokesmen for the United States and Russia could be brought together and forced to put all the cards on the table face up. There would be no Vishinskys to rant and rave, just questions and answers. There would be no secret, no vodka binges, just the straight dope on what it is about the Russian government that's threatening the security and lives of hundreds of millions of human beings. And the whole thing, of course, would have to be reported fully in the Russian press, which explains why no such meeting is possible.

Did You Know

Sheet erosion is that phase of land washing in which layers of soil are removed from large areas by the water running over the land surfaces in sheets rather than in definite streams.

A person will tan quicker in mountain than in plains district because in the mountains, less of the sun's ultra-violet rays have been filtered out by the atmosphere.

In the south, with its long growing season, two crops often are grown the same year, summer and winter legumes being grown in one or two year rotations with cotton and corn.

The U. S. and The Comintern

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Lines Against Russian Attack Clearly Drawn.

THE average American's thinking on foreign affairs will be clarified by creation of the new Comintern. He can view the new situation as a challenge in a long political war which need not become a shooting war. He will sharpen his interest in helping western Europe. He will view with justified suspicion left-wingers here who loudly declare that American capitalism is rotten at the core. He will demand more positive action against Communism in America. And he will finally believe that, if there are to be two ideological worlds, it is time to clarify and rationalize what our side of the world stands for.

His conclusions ought to provide the principles through which we should mobilize ourselves for a long political conflict.

Challenge Obvious

There is no question about the challenge which Russia and her satellites have offered. The basis of the new manifesto is quite unlike that of the old Comintern, which once called itself the "International of deeds." It appealed to the proletariat of all countries. And Lenin, its high priest, called for the end of the "state" and hence of all old concepts of nationalism and sovereignty. The new Comintern pictures the same enemy, "capitalist imperialism." But its appeal is to nationalism, national sovereignty and "democracy."

Against this torrent of propaganda, Americans, together with free people everywhere, must build their defenses. Our aid to the nations of western Europe ought to take on more positive form. It cannot be a mere dole to more-or-less shaky governments which offer us no assurance that they have a common interest in the economic unification of western Europe. It is not the mere reconstruction of Germany that we seek and the bolstering of anti-Communist governments in Italy and France. The concept of western Europe must be an economic union built around the great economic powerhouse of the Ruhr. The Comintern aims at unifying eastern Europe. Our answer in Europe must be a counter-unity in the west.

Must Take Firm Stand

In the United States we must at long last develop a policy about Communism. The basis of that policy should be a firm denial of any legal rights to a party which aims at the destruction of our civilization. In short, we should, by federal and state action, outlaw the Communist party or any other party which takes orders from the new Comintern. All the old soft-headed arguments against such a positive step have now lost their force. To the argument that to outlaw Communism is to drive it underground, the answer is that it has been underground for a long time. Any illegal activity is underground, and it is the business of the police power to root it out.

But to outlaw the Communist party does not necessarily mean outlawing the Communist press. The principle of a free press admits no censorship or restrictions beyond those imposed by present law. The miserable Communist sheets which would survive the extermination of the Communist party could be checked by our own press. The relationship of such a subversive press with foreign powers could be ruthlessly exposed.

Advantage of Exposure

The following of the Comintern line could be systematically shown. Such an alien press could do little damage thus exposed to public view.

Finally, the concern of Americans should be a clearer definition of our own point of view. We cannot be merely anti-Comintern. We must be pro-something, and that something must transcend the generalities of freedom and democracy. The materials for an American manifesto are at hand. We must, in cooperation with those all over the world who are now under attack, raise an ideological standard of our own.

This Marriage Began As an Optical Illusion

Rita Hayworth has filed suit for divorce from Orson Welles, the superannuated boy wonder.

One can only sympathize with Rita: Living with an ordinary genius is difficult enough but Orson is a revolving one.

Hollywood is full of hams but, so far as I can determine, Welles is the only one who won't even brush his teeth without a fanfare.

The two met when Orson, demonstrating one of his less spectacular accomplishments, sawed Rita in half at a charity bazaar. It was a case of love at first fright.

Miss Hayworth left a would-be actor, Victor Mature, waiting at the altar when she wed Welles. Never has a lady with so many attractions had so little choice.

The separation comes as no surprise to Hollywood, their marriage having been doomed from the first. Try as she might, Rita could never have replaced Orson's first love, Orson.

Battle Over Steel

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—The bitter debate which has been intermittently in progress between the managers of steel industry and their government and labor critics will no doubt soon come to a boil again. The council of economic advisers is expected to submit a report to the President which will be highly critical of "unimaginative" steel management. The battle will reach its height during the next session of congress. Since it will rage loud and long, it is worth trying to understand what it is all about.

The views of the steel industry's critics, of whom the chief sparkplug is a government economist, Dr. Louis Bean, have already been reported here, together with a conversation between the council of economic advisers and E. M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of United State Steel. In brief, the economists argue that the steel managers are content to limit expansion, to take high profits out of high prices now, as a sort of hoarding against a future depression. It is argued further that in failing to expand their industry in keeping with the prodigious postwar expansion of the American economy as a whole, the steel managers have made a future depression almost inevitable.

Two Sides

That is one side of the coin. The other side, as argued with conviction by Mr. Voorhees and his associates, might fill a tair-sized book. But here is an attempt briefly to summarize the main points:

"The steel industry has no power to create depression or prosperity." That depends on the ultimate consumer—the man who buys a car or his wife who buys a washing machine. They, not the steel managers, decide how much steel is produced. "Would the 1929 crash have been avoided if steel had greatly expanded?" Moreover, Voorhees and his associates argue cogently that Dr. Bean's neat charts of the relationship between employment and steel capacity are demonstrably phoney, based on a logarithmic trick which would horrify any competent statistician.

▶None of the government economists, say the steelmen, has troubled to consider the real meaning of the vast expansion of steel capacity which they demand. Even if it were miraculously possible to increase steel capacity now by as much as 10 per cent—which it is not—the effect would be disastrously inflationary. The already hard-pressed construction industry would be drained, and steel prices themselves would be forced up, since it takes steel to make steel. Moreover, the industry is already expanding at top speed consistent with any reasonable economic theory. And the fact that the billion dollar expansion program is already six months behind schedule illustrates the kind of difficulties which the government economists so lightly brush aside.

▶By any fair test, the steelmen say, steel prices are low. It can be demonstrated statistically that they are far lower than prices in any other important segment of the economy by comparison with prewar. Moreover, Mr. Voorhees gives a version of his statements on steel prices before the council of economic advisers which differs from the version previously reported here. He was reported to have said that the steel industry could have absorbed last spring's wage rises "as long as the industry continued to operate at 90 per cent of production." According to his records, he was first asked whether the industry could absorb the increased costs if it were to operate at 80 per cent of capacity. He replied "no." Asked about 90 per cent, he answered that "that was a different matter, and he could not be so sure about it."

He agrees that he told the council that on the basis of past experience the steel industry, far from operating continuously at 90 per cent of capacity, must look forward to operating at times at 50 per cent of capacity, or even lower. But he does not agree with the government economists that if steel, as the basic industry, were to operate temporarily at half capacity, this would necessarily spell a depression.

▶Moreover, Mr. Voorhees does not agree that steel profits are extraordinary. Steel profits are higher than they have been for many years. But Mr. Voorhees argues that in terms of the great volume of production and of the lower purchasing power of the dollar, and in comparison with profits in agriculture and in other sectors of industry steel profits are very moderate. This, too, can be demonstrated statistically.

Problems Overlooked

These, then, in too small a nutshell, are the views of a representative spokesman of the steel industry. One who has heard both sides of the debate, which will no doubt grow increasingly heated, is left with two impressions. First, the economists, absorbed in their charts and their statistics, are undoubtedly inclined to overlook the pressing practical problems which confront the steel managers. And second, the steel managers, absorbed in their immediate business problems, are also inclined to underestimate the real political meaning to this country of another period of mass unemployment. Surely in strict self-interest, if for no other reason, it must be the over-riding objective of industrial management, as well as of the government, to do whatever can be done to avoid a repetition of the thirties.

The Big Poker Game

By FRANK TRIPP

I'VE BEEN in on plenty of discussions about our feeding Europe and financing the world. Our humane responsibility dominated them all but they never ended in decision that we should wreck America to save those who hate us.

The American people are getting pretty fed up on the insolence and ingratitude of the recipients of our billions: pretty tired of sustaining foreign indolence and ideologies which seek to ruin us.

They are thinking how silly and futile it seems to periodically destroy our treasure and give the lives of our youth to conquer nations we have nurtured back to fighting strength so they could war against us—when they should be feeding and supporting themselves.

We cannot and should not withhold aid to any starving people. It is not an American trait to do so, but we have been disillusioned and cannot be kidded that it means anything more than balm to our conscience; knowledge that we have done our duty. The antics of those we befriend have erased the joy from our giving.

* * *

The net of it is that there's more economic and political significance than milk of human kindness in our deeds. There's more fear that our political system and commercial supremacy will be upset than the forthright happiness which our acts should bring us.

The argument is that Europe will go along with those who feed her; so Russia will take over if we don't. The lowdown, cold-blooded guts of it is that our customers are broke and hungry and we've got to put 'em on their feet or we won't have anybody but ourselves to sell to. That's a mean and miserable reason for doing good.

Right now, we'd like to be able to sell to ourselves—like to have something to sell to each other.

One reason we can't is because we are giving so much away. Giving it to people who openly proclaim they detest us and won't buy anything from us any time they can get it cheaper or easier from anybody else.

* * *

The whole thing makes me think of a screwball poker game at 3 o'clock in the morning. A couple of guys have won all the money from four other players. The four are sleepy and broke. They want to fold up and go home.

Just to keep the game going, the winners, who have accomplished their original object and won all the dough, stake the losers so the game won't bust up. They've just got to play poker.

They never expect to get paid back—and they tell the losers so. On that condition the losers aren't near so sleepy, accept the lend-lease, "borrow" another stack of blues, and the game goes on.

The winners are playing against their own money. Every time a loser's stack gets low he "borrows" some more and gets bolder—'cause it ain't costing him anything. He plays bobtail straights and makes four card draws.

* * *

Pretty soon he hits a streak of luck. He fills a royal on a three card draw and shoves in his whole stack.

The sucker who by that time should have had two hours sleep, with all the money in his pocket, raises on an ace full and loans the loser some more money so he can raise back.

The winner won't be pushed off his back porch. Before the cards are laid down he has "loaned" all his money to the loser and he has to borrow from the other winner, who has been egging him on. By then he owes plenty, which he's got to pay back.

You can't see the table for the stack of dough that's piled on it. But every last dollar of it came out of the winner's pocket—his own money, now hanging on the result of the showdown.

* * *

After all the money is in the game, all that was there, and all that could be borrowed, somebody calls.

The loser, who didn't have a cent of his own in the game, lays down the royal, rakes in the pot, grins, yawns—and goes home.

Instead of paying what he owes he organizes a new game and declares his creditor out.

The sap who had it all once, and was sitting pretty, has to hock, the family pewter, mortgage his house and his children have to go to work to pay off his debts.

The short skate he staked says "go jump in the lake," repays nobody—

And starts another war!

* * *

Seeing this is what they do, there's just one way to lick it. Forget our injured feelings, pull in our belts and feed the people—but starve the militarists. No more dough to rebuild foreign war machines.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Saga of Mazie McQuay

Oh hark to the story of Mazie McQuay
Who came into fame in a very strange way
They broke over her lovely young head champagne
And christened the cutie "Miss So-And-So Ale"

Her girlhood was drab, oh, as drab as could be,
She was born 'cross the tracks with no swanky pedigree,
Her future seemed dim and the outlook was blue
'Til fate interviewed with a brewery or two.

* * *

Our Mazie was poor and her name caused no stir,
No glory seemed anywhere slated for her
She moved with the set that eats peas with a knife,
But one day a brewery came into her life

The busy directors, all ponderous males,
Were seeking the touch that would put up the sales;
Each one in a frenzy was wracking his brain
With nothing quite novel to show for his pains.

When up spoke an officer—presto—Lo! that...
He gave with a notion as quick as a cat:
"New beer sales totals we cannot annex
Until it is linked up with beauty and sex.

"All makers of lager, I note, from the first
Have linked the brew only with man and a thirst.
Ya gotta have glamour and 'it' in a brew
Put sex in the mops and some hoppings you'll do."

"So voted!" the board cried and then came the day
The judges picked pretty Miss Mazie McQuay;
She soon was proclaimed for the whole world to hear
The lovely entrancing "Miss-Make-Mine-a-Beer!"

* * *

Her face smiled from billboards all over the land
As Mazie told all that the right "suds" were grand;
Her fame was tremendous; one look at her face
And every one went to McGonigle's Place

Then love came along; Mazie loved at first glance
A man in the ads in correct coat and pants
"The Man of Distinction" came into her life
And soon they were wedded as husband and wife.

* * *

Oh, happy they were and two kiddies they had—
A cute little girl and a cute little lad;
But sad was the ultimate end: it appears
The boy hated whiskies, the girl hated beers!

"He was one of New Jersey's best-known businessmen and had retired in 1492."—Hera Tribune.

He knew when to quit.

"Dear Sumner," wrote Mrs. Roosevelt to Welles, "This Eisler case seems a hard nut crack." Causing Ray Flinn to ask why Sumner didn't suggest Tschaikowski's "Nutcracker Suite" by the Moscow Symphony Orchestra.

EGG OUTLOOK

I fear if I'm to put away one
I'll have to find a way to lay one.

THE best answer we have had to whether the women will hold out against those new styles or give in was given to us by a gal in the business:- "They will accept 'em, and do think otherwise. It always works out this way. First the mothers declare for a revolt; then the daughters wear the new modes and, as they do look charming in anything, they look swell; and then the grownups, always succumbing to the urge to look young, wear what the kids wear.

Postwar Adjustment

By TRUMAN TWILL

A friend of ours, a pleasant young man who fought in the big war, was telling us about his postwar adjustment problem. He said his problem at the moment was to adjust himself, his wife and a five-months-old daughter into apartment.

"This has proved to be very tough," he explained. "It seems all three of us are badly in need of adjustment. It has been made plain to us by many owners of apartments that we are not in less cases. The idea seems to be that we have sinned against society."

Surely he didn't mean that.

"That's exactly what I mean," he said. "When they told me I had to go away to prepare myself to be a hero, they didn't bother to tell me that when I came home I would have no chance to find a place to live in: (1) I was a father; (2) I hadn't made a financial killing in the war boom; (3) I couldn't make over my whole life to suit the whims of a certain group of patriots. They assumed I knew all these things. My wife and I have decided that ignorance of the law is no excuse. We now are ready to take our punishment with a stiff upper lip."

What did he mean—stiff upper lip?

"No complaining," he said. "Bright and cheerful. We will contrive to have the baby placed in an orphanage where the fact she is a bastard will not be held against her. Lacking the privilege of sharing in the war boom, we'll have to dope out some money-making racket of our own to make up the ground we lost. Perhaps it will be chain letters. Or it might be blackmail. I don't know. If necessary, my wife could go to work so the two of us together could meet the rent on someone's converted chicken coop. If there are other requirements to be met bracely."

Such as what?

"My sins against society," he explained 'all include smoking, which is frowned on by many owners of rental property. They include a liking to be gouged. In the American way of life unexpurgated version, I am permitted to have no dogs, cats, canaries, no dirty overalls, nightshift work, no friends who stay late and no chance to pay low rent until I have a chance to see whether I am destined for success or failure."

Wasn't he being bitter about this? Millions of young men have gone through the same thing.

"True," he agreed, "but with this difference. They weren't told in advance that with them the war was going to be different—that the nation would make it up to them for the discomfort of being taken away from home to stop a bullet or bomb fragment if necessary—that in return for preserving the American way of life they'd have a decent crack at it themselves. I know, it was all planned this way and that you can't blame people for wanting to feather their nests. But on the other hand, you can't blame some of us for not being able to see the American way of life any more for the feathers, can you?"

The answer was no.

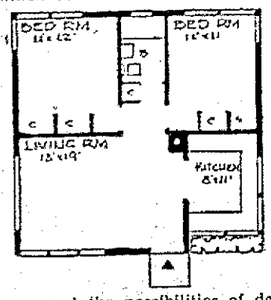
Ultra-Modern Building Ideas Included in Plan for Low-Cost One-Floor House

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW
by W. Wadsworth Wood

The concrete foundation slab, the shed-type roof, the high windows and the over-hanging rafters are a few of the ultra-modern building ideas incorporated in this plan for a one-floor modern house.

The two bedrooms, each presenting approximately 120 square feet of floor surface, are most unusual for this size of building. The living room, with both exterior walls well glassed, will be light and cheerful. The kitchen and bathroom are complete units and well laid out for maximum convenience.

Many of the minimum-cost houses presented today lack the closet space, the convenience and the fundamental thought-out design which is offered in this plan. The prospective builder will appreciate the elevation, which is good looking in almost any setting, the four-square floor plan, which means construction economy, and the possibilities of development into a larger house.



This plan offers the owner a number of ideas for increasing the size of the house at any future time. The closets in the bedroom at the right may be temporarily removed in order to provide a hallway into an addition, but the new addition will provide closets for the existing bedroom through a double wall at the right. The same idea my be followed in the bedroom to the left.

The large window shown in the living room may be replaced by a door leading to an open terrace or to a covered porch. A garage may be attached to the house through an open breezeway from the kitchen, or the garage may be situated back from the front building line.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Steel and Aluminum Tile

Q. Will you please give me whatever information you have in connection with light sheet steel or aluminum tile? This is to be applied on an enameled wall.

A. Wash the walls with a fairly strong solution of trisodium phosphate, about a cupful in a pail of water and allow to dry thoroughly. Dull any gloss remaining by rubbing with fine sandpaper; then wipe off the dust. Spread a putty-like cement, which comes with the tile, over the wall and apply the tile. The method of application is described in a feaflet which comes with each shipment of tile. Read the directions carefully.

White Spots on Table

Q. How can I remove white spots on my leather-top table? These spots were caused by moisture seeping through from a container holding a plant. I have tried very light rubbing with alcohol, also with wax.

A: Clean off the wax by sponging with saddle soap, which you can get at a leather goods store. The salesman can suggest a suitable preparation to apply afterward. A top-quality shoe polish might also be used.

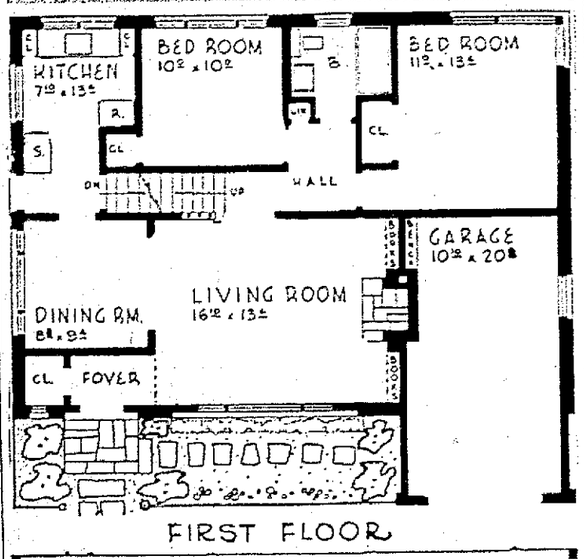
Plaster Cracks Around Bathtub

Q. We are redecorating our home and are having trouble with the bathroom plaster. It chips and breaks away from the built-in tub. We have filled this in with plaster, but it does not last long and we have the same trouble again. Thank you for any advice you can give.

A. Continual wetting of plaster causes it to disintegrate. Try to plan for wall tile around the fixtures. In the meantime, fill the crack around the bathtub with a light colored caulking compound; or you may be able to get a special metal moulding intended for just this purpose. Your hardware dealer may know about it and order it for you.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS



By The Associated Press

With five rooms on the first floor, this house comprising 24,750 cubic feet is suitable for a minimum plot of 50 feet. Designed by Rudolph A. Matern & Associates, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y., as the Lakeview model, it can be built without finishing off the second floor. The architect suggests a slate roof, brick veneer facing with hand-split shingles.

U. S. PRIEST BARRED FROM YUGOSLAVIA

By The Associated Press

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 10—(Delayed)—Official Yugoslav sources said today the visa of Msgr. Albert J. Murphy, director of Catholic war relief in Yugoslavia, has not been extended. They said he would not return to this country.

These sources said Yugoslav officials objected to the fact that Msgr. Murphy personally supervised the unloading of supplies—totalling more than $300,000—and insisted upon accompanying them to their final destination among the people. This, they said, was considered an insult to the Yugoslav Red Cross, which was working with the priest in handling distribution.

Msgr. Murphy's departure means at least a temporary cessation of the $2,000,000 Catholic war relief program for Yugoslavia.

Judged grand champion was a heifer owned by Don Foos of near Prospect. Reserve champion ribbon went to the heifer entered by H. D. Heckathorn and Sons of Forest. Third in the championship class was the entry of Ellis Duprey and Son of Waldo.

In the spring 1947 heifer class, Foos' grand champion was first with second, third and fourth places going to heifers shown by the Heckathorns.

In the fall 1946 heifer class, first place went to Ellis Duprey and Son with the reserve champion. Second and third places went to Earl Augenstein's entry while cattle owned by Mrs. Charles Gillespie of Laurel took fourth and fifth place.

In the spring 1946 class entries were judged as follows: first, H. C. Heckathorn; second, Ellis Duprey; third, Heckathorn; fourth, Oscar Murphy and Sons of Mount Gilead; and fifth and sixth, Heckathorn.

In the judging of Aberdeen Angus bulls, first place went to a Heckathorn entry and second to that of Kenneth Lonsbery of Caledonia.

The sale at which both breeding stock and steers were offered brought an average return on breeding stock of $250.70 while steers averaged $153. The reserve champion heifer raised by the Heckathorns brought top price of $425. The grand champion made $360 for Don Foos and the third ranking heifer in the grand championship class brought $330.

Martel, Iberia Congregation Present Pastor With New Car

Rev. Charles Edgar, rural pastor, has always been a good speaker, according to reports from his parish.

Last Sunday, however, Rev. Edgar admitted himself that he "just didn't have anything to say."

After morning services held at the Martel Methodist church, Cloyd Rice, chosen as representative of both Martel and Iberia Methodist churches, presented Rev. Edgar with two sets of keys to a brand new sedan.

The pastor, stationed in the rural area approximately four years, takes care of both parishes. He makes his home at Iberia but travels back and forth between his home and Martel to hold services for some 100 persons in each parish.

When the ancient automobile which he drove sort of gave up the ghost last spring, the parishioners banded together and made the purchase of a new car their self-appointed task.

In the meantime, when Rev. Edgar came to Martel, one of the residents would have to pick him up and return him in order to have services held at the Martel church.

Through voluntary donations from residents in the two places, the sum of $1,500 was realized last week and the car was purchased.

When the presentation was made last Sunday, Mr. Rice as spokesman informed the pastor and his family, who were present for the occasion, that the car was a gift from the parishes "with no strings attached."

U. S. Children Study in Berlin

School Days Go on Just as They Would at Home for Youngsters.

By The United Press

BERLIN. — American kids in Germany go to school just as they would at home. The only big difference is that they learn more German.

Edwin M. Boyne, formerly associated with teacher training work at Michigan State college, summed up his own year as superintendent of the Berlin dependents' school as "interesting, successful but with room for improvement."

Fifteen teachers handled 460 students during the year in classes ranging from nursery school through high school.

"German is taught in every class," Boyne said.

French and Latin are the other foreign languages taught.

The kids have a "howling" good time every day going to and from school. The army has supplied 17 large school buses which transport children from every part of the U. S. Sector of Berlin to the school and then back home again.

Boyne said he is certain the Berlin school will be accredited by American schools, although formal announcement of this has not been received here yet.

Lack Sports.

One thing the kids lack is an athletic field. They have no opportunity for sports in the school, but have access to many of the military sport fields.

Keeping teachers is one of the greatest problems for schools in Germany. Most teachers stay only a year. They are paid from non-appropriated funds with no assurance of a permanent position. Many come for travel and adventure—or to get married. Boyne said Berlin is more fortunate than most places in Germany. About one-third of the teachers plan to return to Berlin.

Boyne said the Berlin dependents' school compares very favorably with the average small high school in the United States. It is located in a large, modern building which before the war was a high school for 800 German girls.

"The teachers like it here," he said. "They like Berlin and the teaching conditions. We have far more applicants than we can handle. But in the American zone the teachers seem to be dissatisfied."

Eight Graduate.

Eight students comprised the high school graduating class of 1947. Seven were from the Mid-West and one from New England. Three plan to continue their studies in European universities next year. The others expect to return home to enter college.

Analyst Sketches Background Of Newly-Revived Comintern

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The word has been pretty thoroughly spread by this time that the Communist Comintern, or Communist International, has been reassembled and set running full speed again and that, as U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark puts it, its action serves notice "of the relentless campaign being waged to spread totalitarian influence throughout Europe—and later throughout the world." The average citizen knows that much, but how many understand exactly what the Comintern is—and the fact that it is a fearful organization which works largely under cloak of secrecy? Let's take a look at this mysterious collection of high-ranking Communists:

DewittMackenzie

In order to understand the Comintern we must go back a bit. Russian communism isn't the original brand conceived centuries ago. The original envisagement was that of a state in which all means of production were communalized for the benefit of the whole population.

Force Idea Introduced

Then along came Karl Marx, among others, and added as an essential of Communism that it must be inaugurated by a revolution of force. Russian Communism, as laid down by Lenin, emphasized this and insisted that a reign of terror was essential in order to impress the proletariat properly. Thus was born Bolshevism, which is the terroristic arm of Communism, and is synonymous with Communism in modern day Red parliance.

But Bolshevism as taught by Lenin and Stalin and the other old Bolshevists wasn't intended for Russia alone. They had a vision of communizing the whole world, and they appropriately labeled this idea "world revolution."

The next step was obvious. There must be a Bolshevist organization of experts who would act as a general staff for world revolution. So the Third International, or Comintern, was created. Its business was to pick the soft spots for revolution and engineer the upheavals.

The Comintern quickly got into action with its terrible and bloody program. There was the awful upheaval headed by Bela Kun in Hungary in 1919—a plot which failed of its objective. There were other strong-arm movements, but in most countries the initial effort was in the form of intensive propaganda, calculated not only to win supporters for Communism but to create class warfare.

Bolshevism even dared to invade great democracies like those of America and England, and huge amounts of Russian money, badly needed at home, were lavished on the world revolution.

The Reds got so troublesome that the United States withheld recognition of the Soviet Union until 1933 when Roosevelt accorded it upon Red pledges to behave. There was a long period when Britain refused to deal with the Bolshevists.

The efforts at actual revolution were reduced to a minimum in 1925 after Stalin came to power. Trotsky wanted to go ahead with world revolution full tilt but Stalin decided to shelve it until Russia had become strong industrially and militarily, when it could be resumed. That program was carried out.

The Comintern quietly submerged itself, while Soviet diplomats spread the joyful gospel of peace to anesthetize the intended victims of Bolshevism. However, the Comintern was far from dead, although Moscow threw the world a sop in '43 by announcing the disbandment of that body.

The third International bided its time. That time has come, and we see the general staff for world revolution in full swing once more.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Baby's Stomach

Mother is always worried and distressed when Baby vomits. While it is true that vomiting may indicate a serious disorder, it is much more likely to be due to some simple and easily corrected cause.

For example, all babies swallow air when they nurse. Some of them get into the habit of gulping almost as much air as milk.

In attempting to get rid of the air, they are apt to bring up some of their food. This is known as simple regurgitation and should not be mistaken for true vomiting. It happens in so many instances that it has come to be the expected thing in tiny babies. Certainly, it is no cause for alarm unless the baby brings up a considerable amount of his feeding and does so habitually.

Nursing Too Long

Simple regurgitation may occur more often when the baby is allowed to nurse too long, when the baby has some blocking of the air passages, and in similar conditions.

If the baby is not getting enough food, he will be restless and cry between feedings and will not gain weight satisfactorily.

The air swallowing, due to blocking of the nose, may be prevented by gently cleansing the nostril with bits of cotton soaked in a salt solution before each feeding.

Another cause for regurgitation is over-feeding. If the baby is over-fed, he will have more than the usual number of bowel movements in addition to the regurgitation of the food. If the baby is breast fed, the over-feeding may be corrected by having the mother shorten the nursing time for several days. For the bottle baby of course, the amount of each feeding can be reduced.

Babies born before the normal time, or premature infants, are especially liable to regurgitate their food. This is due to lack of strength of the valve at the top of the stomach. Regurgitation in such babies is particularly dangerous because of the chance of some of the milk being drawn into the lungs.

The regurgitation can be prevented, first by keeping the amount of the feedings small enough to prevent the conditon, and secondly, by putting the baby on his right side and keeping the head of bed raised after the feedings. Of course these babies should be left undisturbed after they have taken their food.

It is important to remember that vomiting becomes a habit in many infants. It is important, therefore, to check this regurgitation as soon as possible, otherwise a habit may be developed which later on may be difficult to get rid of.

If a baby spits up his food frequently, he should, of course, be carefully examined by the physician to determine just what is wrong; then the disorder, as a rule, can be easily eliminated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

O.: I know a woman who, for the past five years, has had what the doctor calls psychological nerves. What are they and what causes them?

Answer: I do not know of any condition called "psychological nerves." I presume, however, that your friend has some sort of nervous disturbance, possibly a psycho-neurosis.

Physically Handicapped Given Aptitude Tests for Jobs Here

As a part of the local Employ the Physically Handicapped Week drive which has already placed 26 workers in local industry, the Ohio state employment service office here has conducted general aptitude tests. The tests were given in Marion for the first time to enable the physically limited to find the skill for which they are best adapted.

The general aptitude tests were given in the Y. M. C. A. assembly room rather than the OSES office due to the fact that the tests must be given where the persons being tested will not be disturbed. Nine persons were given the tests by two members of the testing department of the state office of the Ohio State Employment Service at Columbus. The tests are being graded in Columbus.

Those who took the tests were given appointments to return to the OSES on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 13 and 14, post-test counseling interview. The results of the test will be discussed with the applicant, and attempts will be made to comply with the test indications.

80 Invited To Take Part.

Prior to giving the tests last Friday, letters were sent to 80 workers with physical limitations who were registered with the Marion office of the Ohio state employment service, requesting them to contact the OSES at a definite time for a counseling interview. It it was learned from this interview that the physically handicapped worker was not certain what he desired to do, or if in the mind of the counselor the handicapped person was capable of performing or learning to perform a job of a higher skill, the handicapped person was given an appointment to return to the OSES on Friday, Oct. 3 to take the series of general aptitude tests.

Since the beginning of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, additional handicapped workers have registered for employment, handicapped workers previously registered have advised that they have secured employment, or are no longer interested in employment, and 26 have been placed. At the present time, there are approximately 50 still seeking employment.

Essay Contests Under Way.

In regard to the essay contests sponsored by the National Employ the Physically Handicapped committee and the AMVETS, H. H. Douthitt, chairman of the committee and Fred B. Scherff, manager of the OSES, are urging more foremen and handicapped workers to take part. A prize of $50 will be offered the foreman writing the answer to "Why I Feel It's Good Business to Hire the Handicapped Worker," and a prize of $25 will be offered the physically handicapped person writing the best reason why the handicapped worker can be an effetent worker and as valuable to an employer as the non-handicapped worker.

Mr. Douthitt and Mr. Scherff expressed their gratitude for the splendid cooperation the community is showing in this NEPH program.

"The Unfinished Dance," Story Of Ballet On Palace Screen

The world of the ballet forms a colorful background for "The Unfinished Dance," the new technicolor production, which opens Sunday at the Palace theater with little Margaret O'Brien as the starring player, this time as a little ballerina.

With Cyd Charisse and Karin Booth in featured roles, the story is of a little ballerina who worships the star of her company and whose hatred for a rival dancing queen is so intense that she brings about a near-tragedy. Margaret O'Brien plays Meg, whose great ambition is to be like the dancing star of the ballet company in whose school Meg is a talented pupil. The star is played by Cyd Charisse.

When a new ballerina, played by Karin Booth, is brought into the company, Meg, believing she is there to replace her idol, plots to make the new ballerina's debut a failure.

Musical Picture

Billed to be shown Wednesday and Thursday is a musical production, "Copacabana" starring Groucho Marx, Carmen Miranda, Steve Cochran, Gloria Jean, Ralph Sanford and Andy Russell.

A double feature, "Song of the Thin Man" and "Lost Honeymoon," will be shown Friday and Saturday. The former stars William Powell and Myrna Loy, and heading the cast in the latter are Franchot Tone and Ann Richards.

Gambling Ship Background

"Song of the Thin Man," laid against an unusual background of a gambling ship and New York's hottest jive night clubs, centers on the murder of a two-timing band leader whose shooting is attributed to the owner of the gambling ship, with whom he has quarreled. Nick Charles, accompanied by his wife, Nora, track down the clues, while Nick just narrowly misses being killed, too.

"Lost Honeymoon" is a romantic comedy based on the embarrassing circumstances confronting an ex-GI who, while suffering from amnesia, married an English girl and became the father of twins. On the eve of his wedding day to the boss' daughter, his English wife appears with the children.

The latest news will be an added feature.

"Foxes of Harrow" To Show Here Through Next Thursday.

"The Foxes of Harrow," the eagerly awaited filmization of the sensational Frank Yerby best seller, opened Friday at the Ohio theater and is billed to play thru Thursday. The film stars Rex Harrison and Maureen O'Hara with an outstanding supporting cast.

A story of adventure, romance and drama, "The Foxes of Harrow" is set in the atmosphere of gay New Orleans of the early 1800's, and it is to this domain of the Creole aristocracy that there comes a man, Stephen Fox, with only a $10 gold piece and a pearl stick-pin to his name.

It tells of this man's dream of power and of his battle to achieve it. Also, it is the story of the proud and aristocratic Creole, Odalie, to whom Stephen is a savage whose violence repulses her and yet who is to be drawn to him.

A double feature, "Each Dawn I Die" and "Bad Men of Missouri," pictures which are making special return engagements, will be shown for seven days starting Friday. The former stars James Cagney and George Raft, and heading the cast in the latter are Dennis Morgan and Jane Wyman with Wayne Morris and Arthur Kennedy.

In "Each Dawn I Die," James Cagney is cast as a reporter bent on tracking down a hot story lead. He obtains vital evidence which links the district attorney with a construction company scandal, is framed and sent to prison on a manslaughter charge. Inside he meets Stacey, played by George Raft, who is serving a life sentence. The reporter helps Raft stage a jail break in return for which he is to get valuable assistance in clearing his own name.

Contrasting this modern drama is "Bad Men of Missouri." The scene is directly after the Civil War with the Younger brothers back on their home soil and out to avenge the misdeeds of a skinflint banker, who has ben buying up tax warrants and dispossessing farmers.

Few Fire Hazards Reported In Annual Inspection of City

Inspections conducted during the past few days in keeping with National Fire Prevention week revealed that comparatively few minor violations were present, according to a report from Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt.

All schools have been given the test fire drill with the exception of Central Junior and Harding High schools. W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central held a test drill Thursday and reported the school proper and the annex was emptied in one minute, 10 seconds.

Firemen have conducted approximately 400 inspections this past week, covering industrial, mercantile and business areas.

Chief Sifritt reported the following general minor violations: fire extinguishers needed to be recharged; light switches needed repairs; some fixtures, placed in flooring were being walked upon; lead wires were broken loose from ceiling fixtures and ashes and cardboard boxes were accumulated at some business places.

In reporting on the Marion equipment and efficiency Chief Sifritt said that a crew of men could be any place within the city limits five minutes after a call was received. This time limit was based on normal conditions and varies accordingly to traffic conditions and also on whether a train blocks the route.

Old equipment at the departments is being replaced periodically with new and modern machines and another replacement is now under consideration. Plans are being discussed to replace the aerial truck at Central station with a more modern truck.

As in previous years, John Ganoe, department mechanic, has been stationed at the corner of Main and Center streets to instruct citizens in the proper use of fire alarm boxes. Two boxes were available at the corner and as before a number of Marionites asked for instructions.

Mr. Ganoe said that so many persons do half of the alarm sending quite properly, but then they stopped, thinking that after the key is turned or the door opened, the alarm has been turned in. This is not correct. The initial step must be followed through and the inner compartment of either type box must be opened and the lever pulled down.

A meeting of the Fire Prevention committee headed by John F. Smith will be held some time next week. At that time the results of the schools in returning the questionaires will be announced.

Pupils in the various schools received the blanks which were to be filled out by the parents and returned. The room and the school which had the largest percentage returned will be named as winners.

"Stork Club" Stars Betty Hutton at State Theater

"Stork Club" starring Betty Hutton and Barry Fitzgerald, and "Heading West" with Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Billed as a double feature Tuesday and Wednesday is "Undercurrent" and "Cockeyed Miracle." The former stars Katherine Hepburn and Robert Taylor, and heading the cast in the latter are Frank Morgan and Keenan Wynn.

Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake are the starring players in the film, "Blue Dahlia," which will be shown Thursday through Saturday as the main attraction of a double feature. Completing the billing will be "Silver City Raiders" with Russell Hayden and Bob Wills.

Dinner Precedes Meeting Of Scout Commissioners

A dinner preceded the meeting Wednesday night of the Marion district Scout commissioners held at the Boy Scout office on East Church street. Theme of the meeting at which 22 were present was the "round-up" or drive for additional members now under way. Goal for the Harding Area is 1,000 additional scouts before the end of 1948.

The following reports of various committees were given, senior unit report, George Power; Scout unit, Howard Ropke and Cub unit by Herman Powelson. Charles Smith and Owen Meddles gave a discussion on the local roundup.

A group of specialists were appointed to assist in introducing better scouting into the program. These men will give demonstrations on all scout work, first aid, signaling, swimming and water demonstrations and other Scout skills. Demonstrations and assistance will be given all scout masters on the visits to the various units.

HARDING BEATS LIMA SOUTH, 14-0, FOR 4TH VICTORY

Brilliant Prexy Defensive Game Proves To Be Victory Margin

By BILL DIEM

Harding gridders extended their winning streak to four straight at the stadium last night by rolling over Lima South, 14-0, before a near-capacity Band Night crowd of 3,000. And for the fourth straight week, the Presidents held their opponents scoreless.

Margin of victory proved to be a brilliant Harding defensive game, a 30-yard Coss to Huddle pass, and a Lima South fumble recovered by Merle Daum on the Lima three-yard line.

Both teams made six first downs, and the Presidents' edge over the Lima South Tigers in total yards gained was a slim 12 yards. Harding gained a total of 140 yards while Lima made 128.

Score in First

First Harding touchdown came late in the opening quarter after the Prexy machine marched downfield from their own 22-yard line to the Lima 30, and big Jim Coss tossed the touchdown pass to Dick Huddle, who streaked over from the 20 for the tally. The pass, incidentally, was the only one the Presidents completed in five tries. Dick Gherman's drop-kick added the extra point.

Only Lima scoring threat of the game came just prior to the first Harding touchdown march, when a Converse-to-Williams pass was good for 20 yards and sent Lima to the Prexy 25. The pass play, called a "Converse Special" is used only occasionally by the Tigers. Converse plays center as a rule, but sometimes moves into backfield to toss aerials. But Harding held and Lima lost the ball on downs after advancing to the Prexy 22.

After taking over the ball, Jim Coss and Clarence Smith took turns slashing down to the Lima 30, averaging 5.5 yards per try in eight plays. Dick Leffler added three more on a quarterback sneak.

Climaxes Punt Exchange

Shifty Clarence Smith got away for 22 yards in the second quarter after being nearly caught back of the scrimmage line, but the play was nullified by a backfield-in-motion penalty. Starting around left end from the 46, Smith ran into a host of Lima tacklers, reversed his field and galloped around right end, picking up 22 yards.

A long 42-yard punt by Prexy halfback Jim Hill climaxed an exchange of punts in the second period and put the Tigers in a hole by rolling out of bounds on the Lima six. On the next play, Lima's Norman Pence took the snap from center and fumbled. Merle Daum, stellar Harding defensive center, recovered on the Lima three, and Clarence Smith plunged over for the touchdown on the following play. Again Dick Gherman's dropkick was good.

The second half remained scoreless and neither team advanced beyond the opponent's 40-yard line. Lima unloosed a passing attack late in the final period that moved the ball from their 12 to the 50, with Norman Downing tossing very fast hot passes to ends Gene Johnson and Dan Brogee.

Harding linemen held the Lima ground attack to a net gain of 68 yards with tackle Bob Ralston stopping seven plays, and Paul Menzer and Jack Bishop digging in for their share of defensive action.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11—Findlay's rampant Oilers moved out front all by themselves in Ohio's collegiate football race last night as halfback Walter Justice scored twice on runs of 75 and 15 yards to lead them to a 28-6 conquest of Ohio Northern's Polar Bears.

The victory was Findlay's fourth in a row, and the 28 points jumped the Oilers up to 132 for the season, the best in the state. Pass interceptions led to the other two Findlay touchdowns in the final period, while Northern's touchdown, on a four-yard pass in the second session, accounted for the only points scored by the Bears in three losing games.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, Oct. 11—Cardington dropped their second game last night, losing to Sunbury, 26-0, at Sunbury.

The Cardington Pirates, demoralized by a nullified touchdown in the opening minutes of the game, couldn't find the scoring punch again during the rest of the game. A scoring lateral pass from Jenkins to Newcomer topped an early Pirate march downfield, but the play was called back on a holding penalty.

Sunbury scored in the last three quarters, fullback Gray accounting for the opening score on a plunge through center Richardson took a lateral and ran around end for the touchdown in the third period. Gray's plunge for the extra point was good.

Richardson made it again around end in that period but the kick for the extra point was blocked by Maxwell.

Gray made the final Sunbury tally in the last quarter, plunging over after a downfield march had set up the score. The kick was good.

Irish Overcome Monarch Lead To Take Top of Loop Ladder

St. Mary Irish came from behind at Marysville last night to trounce the Monarchs, 19-14, and move into undisputed first place in the Mid-State league.

Trailing, 14-7, at the half, the fighting Irish came back in the third period with two touchdowns to win their second league victory. It was the Irish's game all the way in the second half.

Giving the homecoming crowd plenty of thrills, the two teams fought toom and nail all the way, with the Irish coming out way on top 19 yards gained with 326 to the Monarchs 103.

Monarchs Hold

After the Monarchs had rolled up an impressive 14 point lead, the Irish threw a scare into the homecoming crowd by marching down to the Marysville one-foot line in the closing minutes of the first half.

But the Monarchs held and took the ball on downs. On the next play, with two seconds left, Joe Manuel charged through the line, squeezed a fumble out of Monarch fullback Loren Grimes, and Ed Moloney recovered, going over for the tally. Tom Werley's kick was good for the extra point.

The Irish made two long touchdown drives in the third period with aerial attacks accounting for two tallies.

Dick Shuler capped the first scoring drive by tossing a 35-yard pass to Ed Moloney in the end zone. The try for the conversion was not good.

Marching downfield again in the third period, Irish fullback John Baldauf tossed a five-yard pass to Dick Schuler in the end zone for the quarter's second touchdown and the winning score. Again the kick was not good.

Score in First Quarter

Monarch scoring came in the first two quarters. With 10 minutes of the game gone, Marysville's left halfback Curly Hill cut around end from the St. Mary 20-yard line to open up the scoring with a touchdown. Loren Grimes' kick for the conversion was good.

Jack McGuire came through with some deadly aerials for the Monarchs in the second period, rifling a 20-yard pass to Curly Hill who galloped over for the score. Again Grimes' kick was good.

Irish halfback Bob Stuber nearly got away for another touchdown in the third period, but sustained a severe shoulder injury when he dove over the Marysville safety man and hit the ground with his shoulder. His dislocated collar bone and bruised shoulder may keep him out of the Irish-Columbus St. Mary clash next week.

Willing Workers Class Of Baptist Church Meets

"How the home should be conducted" was the discussion topic when the Willing Workers class of Emmanuel Baptist church met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Paul McAllister of 1174 East Church street. Mrs. Charles Kirby of Prospect gave the discussion using scripture verses to illustrate her topic.

During the business meeting the class voted to change the name of the class to "Eldaah", a Bible name meaning "God has called." Plans were made to send Christmas boxes to the following missionaries, Misses Alice Ostrander and Norma Jones in Africa; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Knickles and family in Alaska and to the Elmer Andrews family now in Arizona. Mrs. Andrews was a former member of the class.

BOWLING RESULTS

A 609 series was turned in by D Penry bowling for Alloy in the Osgood Affiliated league at the Palace Recreation Wednesday night. TELLS STORY TO POLICE. In ragged clothes and shoeless, seven-year old Paul Esparza Jr. tells his story in juvenile hall, Los Angeles, Calif., after sheriff's deputies reported they found him locked and crying in a five-foot square closet without lights, windows, or toilet. Sheriff's Lt. Robert Summers said the boy told him his father, a cement worker, had locked him in the closet the last six days before leaving for work. The father was booked on suspicion of child neglect.

STATE MAY FORBID LAKE SAND DREDGING

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11 — State Public Works Director George B. Sowers left the impression here yesterday that Ohio might ban sand dredging in its Lake Erie waters next year.

Appearing before the Metropolitan Erosion Action committee yesterday, he said the dredging was partly responsible for the state's shoreline being eaten away along much of the lakefront.

He told the group that during the 1942-46 period enough sand had been taken from the lake bottom and delivered to Ohio ports to build 30 miles of bathing beaches.

Sowers said it would take nature 250,000 years to replace the sand, and added:

"This is sufficient reason for discontinuing sand dredging."

Harold T. Clark, who represented the Kelley Island Lime and Transport Co. at the hearing, said "Every time the cycle of high waters in Lake Erie has occurred in the last 41 years, the dredging companies hear of it.

"Geologists tell us that sand-sucking has no relation to erosion—erosion existed long before dredging."

Sowers declared he had been assured by the U. S. Army district engineers office in Buffalo that no navigation permits for operation in Ohio waters would be issued dredging companies next year unless Ohio officials approved.

Flowers of the tea bush are white and slightly fragrant, but are not used commercially.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"HELLO there, Light of my Life! Star of—"

I ruthlessly interrupted my husband's tearing answer to my telephone call.

"I'll take all the endearing phrases for granted," I told him. "You're wanted for consultation immediately in the living room."

A Sharp Query

"My fees are," he began loftily, then broke off abruptly and put a sharp query.

"Mary! Is anything wrong?"

"Not a thing. I answered promptly. She's asleep, tucked away for the night."

Then there is something wrong," he said. "I'll be down there in nothing flat."

He was almost as good as his word. His knock sounded so soon after I had replaced the telephone receiver that I knew he must have sprinted down the stairs from his studio to our living room without waiting for the elevator. I was waiting near the door, and swung it open at his knock.

Anxious Question

"What's cooking?" he demanded anxiously. "Mary was fairly radiating sweetness and light when I left her. Did that—that primordial ape have a change of heart and come back to upset her again with some more of his half-baked theories?"

"Calm down, Dicky-bird," Katharine advised, with a carelessness calculated to reassure him. "You'll develop a blood pressure, if you haven't one already. Mary is perfectly all right, and Noel didn't come back again, or call. If he's as fatigued physically and mentally and emotionally as she is, he probably is thumping his auricular extremity also."

Dicky threw up both his hands. "My, my, Katrina!" he mocked. "I hope them words are printable!"

But his relief was unmistakable as he sat down heavily in the nearest chair, and I shot a grateful glance at my kinswoman. She wrinkled her nose at me, and I knew what was coming.

"I think this is your dish, Madge," she said. "Bring your spouse up to date on the happenings since he left, and then turn him over to me."

Impetuous questioning, I knew, was on my husband's lips, but I dodged it by plunging immediately into the news Mary had given me of Noel's complete capitulation, and of the shadow on her bliss cast by the thought of the inherited royal rages and bloody heartbroken moods which were Noel's lot.

"She said that he had conquered the rages before she became ill," I told him, "but that she was afraid the moods had continued, although Noel had given her no glimpse of them since her return from the sanitarium."

"That was nice of him," Dicky said sardonically, and I shook my head reprovingly at him. But Katharine laughed outright.

"Yes, wasn't it," she commented. "But go on, Madge. I'm sorry I interrupted."

"I'm not," my husband said unrepentantly. "But go on, anyway."

"I'd like to take my dolls and go home," I said, wrinkling my nose at him. "But I'm going through with this if it kills me."

"I solemnly promise to decorate your grave with gardenias every other Thursday, on my day out," Katharine said, but I loftily ignored her, and hurried on with my story of the revelation I had made to Mary of Philip Veritzen's realization that the rages and moods were not inherited, but fostered by himself, of his decision to tell Noel of his awakening, and of my plan not to say anything to Noel on the subject until I had given him permission.

Last Worry Banished

"That decision appeared to banish her last worry," I said. Then, to my astonishment, she said she wanted to go to sleep after an alcohol rub from Katharine."

"I can't believe that," Dicky said incredulously. "Mary, of all people, calling it a day! Are you sure she's all right?"

"Absolutely," Katharine said serenely. "She'll be all right in the morning. Please take into consideration what the girl's been through. She's simply getting the letdown. But I want to keep her reasonably quiet for the next few days with nothing on her mind but her husband and her study of her lines."

"I get you," Dicky said. "You want to call that date off tomorrow night for Mary, Noel, my spouse and me."

"Yes, I do," Katharine said defensively. "She must be quiet for a few days."

Not Kicking

"All right, all right," Dicky said. "I'm not kicking. But if that's called off she ought not to have other distractions. What about that visit from Harriet? She's my beloved sister, and one of the best scouts going, but I don't think she's God's own gift to a nervous relative."

"Neither do I," Katharine agreed, "but what can you do?"

The telephone shrilled, and she looked at us with the eyes of a seeress.

"Dollars to doughnuts," she said, "that's Mrs. Braithwaite now, to give you the date of her arrival!"
